Special Appeal for Tropical Storm Relief for Kids in Jacmel, Haiti

By David Stillman - PPAF Executive Director

Dear donors and friends,

The Art Creation Foundation for Children, in Jacmel, Haiti, is one of the main organizations receiving support from PPAF. Jacmel was far enough away from the site of the recent earthquake to receive only minor damage from that, but Tropical Storm Grace brought serious flooding to the area a few days later. ACFFC provides after-school education of children in need, including art instruction, tutoring, medical care, daily food and water, and educational expenses for students in the program. PPAF sponsors teaching in solar cookstoves and sewing classes and encourages entrepreneurship.

ACFFC leadership has appealed to PPAF for help. Eleven of its students were severely impacted by flooding from the storm. They lost school uniforms, shoes, clothes and bedding. Four more students had some damage and lost some possessions. All children in the ACFFC program come from very low-income families. The doors and windows where they live often have no more than cloth covers.

PPAF is seeking funds to help and your contributions will go directly to meeting the needs of these students.

Here are the estimated costs your assistance will buy: 11 students: school uniforms $35, school shoes $20, bed mat and blanket $50, other clothes $100 x 11 = $2,255. Four students: $50 x 4 = $200. Miscellany: $45. Total = $2,500.

Our first donor has given $300. Can we count on you to join us?

Please donate here.

Warm regards,

David Stillman, PPAF Executive Director
