

UPDATES FROM THE PUBLIC-PRIVATE ALLIANCE FOUNDATION

Dear Colleagues and Friends of PPAF,

Partnerships for Sustainable Development is the name of the Foundation's new blog. I hope you'll come visit, comment and subscribe. See: www.ppafoundation.org/blog
There are also new updates on PPAF's home page: www.ppafoundation.org

We have also uploaded several new videos on our YouTube Channel. www.YouTube.com/ppafoundation

These highlight ethanol and bioenergy in the Dominican Republic and Haiti; the UN Millennium Development Goals and the D.R.; and the work of the Inter-American Development Bank. There's also a video on "What is PPAF?" Featured are Aristides Fernandez-Zucco, President of the National Energy Commission of the D.R.; Francis Lorenzo, an Ambassador of the D.R. to the United Nations; Arnaldo Vieira de Cavalho, Sustainable Development Specialist, Inter-American Development Bank; and Dr. Daniel Faustin, Executive Vice President of SIMACT, Inc., which invests in projects in Haiti. Bill Miller, host of Global Connections TV, filmed with UN TV, is the interviewer.

Another video features an excerpt from PPAF's June 17 meeting at the United Nations, on Ethanol and Bioenergy. In it Ken Mackay, CEO of MS Global Finance, talks about financing in the current international climate.

Look for news very soon about our upcoming event on bioenergy in the Dominican Republic.

We need your help! Please support our work to bring jobs and sustainable development to our focus countries, Madagascar, the Dominican Republic and Haiti. You can do this through Just Give/PPAF Foundation or contact me directly at ppafoundation@gmail.com .

David Stillman, PhD
Executive Director,
Public-Private Alliance Foundation