Dear PPAF Friends,

I am writing at this holiday season to wish you a wonderful experience with family and friends. As you share your joy and good cheer, we hope you will take a little time and consider a gift to PPAF in the name of a friend or loved one.

Schools have re-opened with the subsidence of Haiti's political and economic crisis. Twenty-three young people are newly enrolled in the course on solar cooking and biodigesters for biogas and garden fertilizer we support at the Université Notre Dame d'Haiti at Hinche. The solar instructor is a talented graduate of last year's course; the biodigester instructor also maintains the university lab and has created an on-campus tree nursery. They rely on the curriculum developed by colleagues in our consortium. Entrepreneurship and community teaching and outreach are part of the course. We hope to use this second year as a basis for replicating it in other universities. You can donate here.

School is back in session too at the Art Creation Foundation For Children in Jacmel. The children are excited to learn about baking and sewing, making aprons and planning to make warming bags for stoves. We are impressed with the photos and aprons that we've received.

While our Haitian and American team are making great strides, we still have a lot to accomplish.

We need your support. Please help us and ask your friends and family to join! You can be the best ambassador for recruiting new friends. If you have any questions, I would be happy to provide you with more information.

With your donation, we're one step closer to improving and expanding this work, reaching out to many more students and families, and helping build biodigesters and solar stoves.

You can help change the life of a student, a family, a community. We hope you will be generous in giving support to these projects in Haiti.

Warm regards,

David
